Mission Statement

Sandy's Message:

Transformation

Transformation rocked my world this week and circularity gave it a twirl.

This week began with a memorial service for Valerie Lawson-Smith who was my first T'ai Chi Chih teacher. We honored her wish that the gathering begin my first T'ai Chi Chih teacher. We honored her wish that the gathering begin with 10 minutes of T'ai Chi Chih to ground us and connect us. Moving from corporeal beings to the next adventure is a major transformation.

Two days later I listened as 26 men incarcerated in Folsom Prison told us stories of the men they use to be and the men they are becoming. They are all members of the T'ai Chi Chih class held once a week at the prison. They talked of how T'ai Chi Chih has been a tool for change in how they deal with the anger, depression, and the pressures of prison life. They feel more empowered to live their lives as the person they would like to be.

Four days later was World Tai Chi Qigong Day. I joined 15 other people on a gorgeous day outside overlooking The Bay and San Francisco to practice T'ai Chi Chih. Our intent was to allow the positive energy generated through the practice to energetically join with other practitioners of spiritual or energy arts practicing around the world that day to create a positive energy vibration to surround the world.

The week began with the ultimate transformation of moving from this body-bound life to what comes next. Then the visit to Folsom witnessing the daily work of transforming the present. Then came the day of gathering to vibrate the web of life connecting us all, with the intent that in the not too distant future we will reach critical mass and alter the consciousness on this planet.

Transformation is all around us, constantly in the process. It goes hand-in-hand with impermanence, yet transformation may be a gentler way to view and accept it.

~ Looking at the "Look Who's Coming to the Conference" page was fun. Some names of regulars, some new, and some I haven't seen for a while and am looking forward to hugging. It is always a changing mix of who attends but the spirit of conference is the same. We gather to refresh our practice, learn new skills and techniques for teaching, and spend time connecting with like-hearted folks. The conference team has posted highlights of the schedule below so keep reading, and if you haven't made plans to come it is not too late.

Update: June 15-18, 2017 Teacher Conference

Report from the Conference Committee:

The list of teachers coming to conference is growing!

We love how the conference gives us an opportunity to connect with old friends and to meet new ones. It is very exciting to see the growing list of teachers coming to the conference. We love that the conference gives us an opportunity to connect with old friends and to meet new ones. If you have not done so already, check out the "Look Who's Coming to the Conference" link for a list of teachers who have already registered. If your name is not on the "Look Who's Coming" list, it's not too late!

Justin's Insights

Softly and Without Effort

KEY POINTS TO INCORPORATE IN PRACTICE & TEACHING Presented by Justin at Conference
(Printed in VFJ Sept. 1991)

The future of T'ai Chi Chih lies with its Teachers. Continue to improve your T'ai Chi Chih and how you teach by thinking out your method of doing/presenting these things in a way that you and your students get the same (intended) result.

These Principle movement notes were presented:

- 1. Keep T'ai Chi Chih standardized. Emphasize the pathways described are mostly done with the wrists.*
- 2. T'ai Chi Chih is not an upper body movement, though we remember to swivel the waist (such as in the "swimming motion" in Working the Pulley).*
- 3. Move in a low T'ai Chi Chih stance and yin-and-yanging of the legs must be done correctly. Generally the legs are not far enough apart in the yin-and-yanging. This short stance causes incorrect rocking back and forth, trying to save the knees. It is very important to perform this action properly. DO AND TEACH A LOW MOVEMENT.
- 4. Develop muscle memory by repetition. You can do it too few times and cannot do it too many.*
- 5. It is not the exercise which is helpful — it's the flow of the chi. This way the whole organism is effected vs. treating a symptom.*

Chi Reflections

Gather, Breathe, Move

In motion

all parts of the body must be light

nimble

and strung together.

The ch'i (breath) should be excited,

The shen (spirit) should be internally gathered.

~ The Essence of T'AI CHI CH'UAN by Lo/Inn & Amacker/Foe

One Limitless World

*When we inhale, the air comes into the inner world.
When we exhale, the air goes out to the outer world.
The inner world is limitless,
and the outer world is also limitless.
We say "inner world" or "outer world" but actually,
there is just one whole world.*

~ Shunryu Suzuki

A TCC Retreat offers a wonderful way to:

- Deepen our experience and understanding of TCC
- Refine our movements, and especially HOW TO MOVE for a greater flow of Chi
- Give oneself a time of deep relaxation and personal renewal of body, mind and spirit
- Connect with others in the TCC Community.

By retreating from the activities of daily life to recharge your physical, mental & spiritual "batteries", you can gain a new perspective and move forward with greater ease and joy in your TCC practice and in your life . ~Pam Towne
